Jay Litton

Do hiring managers say “Wow” about you at the end of your interviews? If not, then it is probably taking you too many interviews to get a job offer. Jay is the creator of the Wow! Interview and has shared his secrets of getting the offer to over 10,000 professionals in career transition. The average candidate gets the offer 12% of the time when getting to the hiring manager interview. Based on a survey of 100 candidates that have used Jay’s program, they were instead successful 46% of the time.

The WoW! Interview™ is about exceeding the expectations of hiring managers by presenting specifically how you will add value if you were hired. More details available at www.WowInterview.com.

Jay is an Enterprise Sales Executive with Sumo Logic which is based in Redwood City, CA. Sumo Logic is a SaaS, Cloud native service which helps companies monitor and troubleshoot their critical applications, so their customers will have the best experience. Companies like Delta, EPIC Games, Marriott, AirBnB and MLB all depend on Sumo Logic so they can successfully operate their applications 24/7.

Jay has been the leader of RUMC Job Networking since 1997. He and the RUMC Job Networking volunteer team of over 225 active volunteers provide the resources, mentoring and training to thousands of job seekers in the Atlanta area each year.
