A little about Andy Kalajian, dinner speaker. In 1985, Andy loaded up his car with nothing more than his resume, a sport coat and tie, $2500, a big dream, and faith that God was going to fill in the gaps. He moved to Atlanta GA, in pursuit of a medical sales career where he could leverage his passion for medicine to serve people. Andy grew his medical sales business well into 7 figures by applying the leadership, character, communication, and teamwork lessons he learned from reading books and listening to thought leaders. As Andy continued to advance in his career, he was invited to speak to organizations and train teams on those lessons learned throughout the United States and Puerto Rico.

Andy founded Fort Leadership to continue speaking, training, and coaching individuals and teams in leadership and character development. These skills foster growth in corporate leadership, communication, and teamwork. His corporate experience and insights train leaders to develop healthy corporate cultures with team members who are motivated, engaged, and purpose driven resulting in increased employee retention, team performance, and revenue growth!
